

The Library of Congress's Veterans History Project
Salutes Our Military Veterans this Veteran's Day

Tues., November 1

6:00 p.m.

"Veteran Librarians"

Listen and learn about a time in the 1960's when people with a Masters in Library Science were drafted into military service and ended up in Vietnam.

(Madison Building, Mumford Room)

All events are free and open to the public.

To reserve a seat, call (202) 707-6179 or email, vhpRSVP@loc.gov.

Wed., November 9

7:30 p.m.

In partnership with Harvard University Law School, the Liz Lerman Dance Exchange presents a program of original works created with veterans and historians based on stories of wartime service, concentration camp liberators, and Justice Robert Jackson's personal papers.

(Jefferson Building, Coolidge Auditorium)

Fri., November 11 ♦ ♦ Veteran's Day ♦ ♦

Forever A Soldier: Unforgettable Stories of Wartime Service, published by National Geographic Books and the Library of Congress is available in bookstores nationwide. For more information, www.loc.gov/foreverasoldier.

While the World Watched, an hour-long radio documentary on the Nuremberg Trials airs on WAMU at 8:00 p.m. on Nov. 11 (TBC) and on other Public Radio International stations throughout the country.

(Check local listings for other airdates.)

Mon., November 14

12:00 p.m.

Book Talk with Vivian Spitz, the youngest court reporter at the Nuremberg Trials, and the author of "Doctors From Hell"

(Madison Building, Dining Room A)

Tues., November 15

7:30 p.m.

"In the Shadow of the Holocaust"

Master Chorale of Washington performs a cantata by internationally acclaimed composer and the Chorale's own music director Donald McCullough, based on songs and writings of prisoners in Nazi concentration camps. The program will also include selected readings from the collections of the Veterans History Project.

The program is in association with the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum.

(Jefferson Building, Coolidge Auditorium)

For further information on these events and the Veterans History Project, visit www.loc.gov/vets.